When I grow up, I want to be...' this is the cliché phrase that recursively finds its way into every primary and high school students conversation at one point or another in life. The University of Nairobi, Mombasa Campus, from time to time, welcome primary and high school students to visit. The students are given a full tour to the various campus facilities available and departments with presentations by the staff responsible of the facilities and departments. This is an important role of the campus in triggering interest of various courses and activities in students while they are still in primary and high school. The students need exposure to institutions of higher learning and the various courses available later on in life, as well as a glimpse of the requirements to joining those courses. When they make this visits, such knowledge is passed across right at the source with firsthand experience to the study environment. Some of the recent visits were from Winners Academy, Loitoktok, on 29th March, 2018.
